

SEES ELDER GARLAND'S IDEALS REFLECTED IN SON'S REFUSAL OF $1,000,000 HE DIDN'T EARN

Editor Vance, Whom He Aided, Says He Was "Finest, Most Helpful, Squarest, Idealistic Father Any Man Ever Had."

By Lindsay Denison.

Charles Garland, who is just now refusing to accept a million dollar legacy from the estate of his father, James A. Garland, just naturally got that way, if one listens to the talk of Arthur T. Vance an editor and publisher of the Home Magazine, who was picked up by James A. Garland at the time the father of the abnegator of a million was kind of low in mind because of the moratorium in his emotional affairs caused by his temporary divorce from Mrs. Garland (the mother of Charles) whom he later remarried.

Let Mr. Vance tell the story his own way. He started the tale in Birmingham. He had worked his way up and up until he became telegraph editor of a Birmingham newspaper at $12 a week. Then Percy M. H. Garland, who told Arthur got $1 a column "space" by abandoning his editorial job and becoming a regular reporter.

Then Vance got around for making more money ($36.50 a week) than the managing editor (who made $7.50).

And George Greene of Birmingham came along and established the Home Magazine in New York City for Vance.

So Arthur Vance came to New York and started the Home Magazine. He had noted contributors. Jack London wrote his first piece for the Home Magazine. All kinds of magazine editors, illustrators and writers gathered around the Home Magazine—but it did not flourish. It had a circulation of 10,000, and the Editorial Review, of which Mr. Vance is now the editor, has a circulation of 1,000,000, and the Home Magazine (George Gilman Hall and Theodore Waters and all) was the best magazine ever published in the world.

Mr. Vance called. How much was Mr. Vance getting from the Home Magazine? Mr. Vance was truthful: "I was getting a whole $30 a week. Would he accept a mere stipend of $135 for two weeks? Mr. Vance had a cold sweat. So Mr. Vance, who had a little what they call "vance money" went to see his managers of the Home Magazine and asked them. They kissed him on the nose and said "yes" and blessed him.

MRS. ROOSEVELT JR. IS STRICKEN AFTER LONG FOX CHASE

MRS. THEODORE ROOSEVELT JR.

Colonel Hurries Wife to Baltimore Hospital and Spends Night at Bedside.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 4.—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt Jr., who with her husband has been spending a few days at the Harford Hunt Club, was taken ill suddenly Thursday and brought to the Hospital of the Women of Maryland here.

Thursday Mrs. Roosevelt was among those who rode in the fox hunt of the Harford and Elkridge Hunt Clubs, following the chase from the Harford Club over twelve miles of the Pennsylvania State line and back again. She showed no signs of illness during the hunt, but appeared fatigued at the close of the day's sport.

Mrs. Roosevelt accompanied her wife to the city and spent all of the night at her bedside.

Urges Four-Year Term for Governor of New York.

ALBANY, Dec. 4.—The organization of the New York State association to secure legislation looking toward civic and governmental improvement was completed yesterday with the election of Adelbert Moot of Buffalo, a member of the State Board of Regents, as President.

The programme of the association includes a four year term for the Governor and other elective State officials; optional non-partisan election acts for cities; prevention of the wholesale passage of bills at the close of the legislative sessions; bills designed to stimulate food production and effect cheaper distribution, and plans for port development with the accompanying wider use of the State's canals.

5,000 TENANTS OUT ON RENT STRIKE

Landlord Appeals to Bronx District Attorney to Investigate Branch of League.

John D. Smarito, No. 734 East 187th Street, who conducts a number of apartment houses, has asked District Attorney Martin of the Bronx to investigate the Italian Branch of the Greater New York Tenants League with headquarters at No. 757 East 187th Street. The League demands a seven per cent decrease in rent and has started a strike, in which it is said that 5,000 tenants have joined, refusing to pay their December rent.

Smarito says the tenants organization has sent out circular letters containing threats and urging tenants to resist the landlords. Smarito has called a meeting of other landlords to lay their cases before the District Attorney.

Former Yale Professor Dead.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 4.—Professor Frank B. Tarbell, valedictorian of the class of 1873 at Yale University, later professor of Greek and in 1887 going to the University of Chicago, died here today. Upon retirement five years ago Professor Tarbell took up his residence in Pomfret, Conn. He was unmarried.

DOWN-STAIRS STORE

The Practical Side

The lower-price Down-Stairs Store is essentially a practical store.

It has the things that the majority of people need all of the time.

Wearing apparel for men, women and children includes all of the smaller articles that never fail to answer an urgent call.

And there is the added satisfaction that goes with dependable quality, no matter how low the price may be. A low price for the mere sake of cheapness is not tolerated here.

Good Frocks, $5

Somebody wants one

We have about 50 dresses here in misses' sizes that have been reduced to $5. Mostly tricolette; a few serge. Good models; and good dresses.

Down-Stairs Store, Old Bldg.

Low-price Frocks for women are now $12.75

About 100 of them to make merry on Monday. Quite a variety, too—wool jersey, taffeta, tricolette and messaline. Our regular stock; chiefly broken lines; good choosing.
